

LITURGICAL MUSIC PLANNER

2019, YEAR C

Dear Pastoral Minister:

Greetings from Collegeville, Minnesota!

What follows is the Liturgical Music Planner for Celebrating the Eucharist (CE), its companion songbook Sacred Song (2016 and 2011 editions), and the Collegeville Hymnal for the first quarter of the 2019 Liturgical Year. We are entering Year C in the Sunday Cycle.

Earlier this year, Liturgical Press published The Collegeville Psalter by internationally-known liturgist and composer, Paul Inwood. This psalter is a brand-new responsorial psalm collection for Catholic worship that faithfully follows the U.S. Lectionary text of the psalms and responses for the complete three-year cycle of Sundays and major feast days. It also includes settings of the "Common Texts" responsorial psalms.

Its music is fresh and singable, with memorable responses for the assembly, fresh tones for the cantor, and engaging accompaniments for organ or keyboard. Psalms with different refrains or sets of verses use the same or related musical material for ease of learning. An important new resource, The Collegeville Psalter serves well either as a stand-alone parish psalter or as a fine addition to any existing liturgical music program.

Feel free to search for this new resource on our website at litpress.org by entering "The Collegeville Psalter" or by entering the number 4616 in the search field. You may also find more information on this product by contacting customer service at (800) 858-5450. This new psalter will be replacing The Basilica Psalter in both CE and Living Liturgy. Samples for the full season of Advent have been provided along with this planner for convenience of use until a purchase of the full product for your music program, if desired, can be made. Mr. Inwood's instruction on how to perform these psalms has also been provided.

We are honored you have chosen Liturgical Press pew resources to assist your parish assembly to participate in the sacred liturgy. If you have any questions or concerns, or if I can be of any assistance to you, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Wishing abundant blessings upon your ministry to the Body of Christ.

I am sincerely yours,

Mark Anthony Rodriguez

The Collegeville Psalter

In presenting a new psalter for parish use for the Sundays and major feast days of the three-year Lectionary cycle, I have had two basic aims in mind:

- (a) to provide responses for the assembly that are accessible and memorable;
- (b) to provide psalm tones for cantors that are interesting and rewarding.

This book follows the current U.S. Lectionary text faithfully. The psalm verses are as printed there, using the New American Bible translation of scripture. The responses are also as printed there, using the ICEL (International Commission on English in the Liturgy) text currently in use, with occasional repetition of verbal phrases for the purposes of memorability and ease of singing. Errors occurring in the U.S. Lectionary text are noted but not corrected (except for obvious typos).

At the time of writing it seems that it may be as long as ten years before a new edition of the U.S. Lectionary is available. When a new edition is published, it will be easy to adapt the psalm tones included in this book to the text of the Revised Grail Psalter (RGP), if and when that text is eventually finalized. The responses should also prove easy to adapt to new responses derived from the RGP.

In addition to all the Sundays and feast days that can replace the Sunday celebration, I have included the psalms from the "Common Texts" section of the Lectionary. These psalms may be used to substitute for the psalm of the day on a seasonal basis, as provided for in the Lectionary (cf. General Introduction to the Lectionary for Mass, para 89).

The psalm tones, with very few exceptions, use a simple reciting note + termination format. Attention is drawn to the pointing. The first word or syllable to leave the reciting note is indicated by underlining.

In general, the last note of the termination will coincide with the last strong syllable of the line. Most people are used to there being one subsidiary syllable following the main syllable on the final note of the termination. In this psalter you will find a number of instances of two or even three subsidiary syllables following the main syllable on the final note of the termination.

For example, in Psalm 8, verse 1, the final line is pointed or the son of man that you should care for him?

and not

or the son of man that you should care for him?

showing that the last strong syllable of the line should be "care" and not "him."

Similarly, in Psalm 34, verse 2, line 3, you will find

I sought the LORD, and he answered me

and not

I sought the LORD, and he answered me

showing that the last strong syllable of the line should be the "an" of "answered" and not "me."

Please follow the pointing as given, even if it seems unfamiliar or uneasy. If given the opportunity, most should get used to this more nuanced style rather quickly.

Where a psalm has a number of different responses, similar musical material is used for all of them. The psalm tone for each psalm is designed to go with the response(s), either by using similar tonality (the majority of cases), or occasionally with a deliberate contrast called for by the nature of the psalm itself. Some psalm tones consist of two elements repeated to make a four-line chant (though with a varied harmonization on the repetition). A small number of psalm tones contain palindromes — the same notes either forwards or backwards. Some psalm tones are used several times throughout the book, occasionally in different keys or modalities, and even with some modifications where required by the psalm text.

If two notes in the left hand are difficult or impossible to play as written, the upper note can always be taken by the right hand. Sometimes a right-hand note is easier when taken by the left hand. Throughout the book it will often be found helpful or necessary to divide the inner accompaniment parts between the hands.

To economize on paper, different extracts of the same psalm text will frequently be found printed on the same page. The headings will show which verses to select on any given day, but, to avoid confusion, in complex cases users will also find boxes that set out the verses allocated to each day in an easy-to-follow format.

At the back of the book are indexes of psalm tones and an index of liturgical use. To find the psalm assigned for any given occasion, go to the index of liturgical use. To locate psalm tones by key or melodic shape, use the numerical index of psalm tones or the index of psalm tones by category. This will also enable the tones to be used with other psalms not included in this book.

The psalms are printed in the book in numerical order, followed by the canticles in biblical sequence, so there is no need for a numerical index of psalms. There are, however, indexes of first lines of responses and first lines of psalms.
